

This piece followed our discussion of soap operas. Upon its initial presentation, the “real” flowers were all but indistinguishable from the “fake” flowers. Over time, this difference between came more obvious.